

January 19th is Inauguration Day. This is the day on which the President of the United States is sworn in and takes office. If you could be President for one day, what would you like to accomplish?